Investment Objective & Focus

The investment objective of the Pi-7 Global Portfolio is to aim to achieve medium to long term capital appreciation, in line with the respective asset class/market performance. The strategic allocation of this fund is 80% equities, 15% bonds and 5% commodities (excluding cash). For all the three asset classes, we buy into relevant Exchange Traded Funds ("ETFs") to replicate the targeted exposure. For the bonds asset class, we also buy into mutual funds. We impose a 5% deviation limit to the asset class allocation, which are intended to be rebalanced on a quarterly basis. We also reserve the full and absolute discretion to vary the above percentages.

The fund primarily buys into ETFs and underlying funds and collective investment schemes from all asset classes, subject to the code on collective investment schemes. We may also invest into equity funds, balanced funds, fixed income funds and/or money market funds, including equity, balanced, fixed income and/or money market funds managed by Phillip Capital Management. We may use derivatives for hedging and efficient portfolio management purposes in the portfolio and such derivatives are not used to gear the overall portfolio.

Manager's Commentary

The short-term effects of "Brexit" (which happened on 24 June) continued into July, but generally in a benign way. Concerns about this unexpected event, overlaid with continued slow global economic growth, led to the Federal Reserve holding off raising rates in its July meeting and indeed projections are that the Federal reserve may at most hike interest rates once in 2016, and then very slowly after that. Global markets benefited in July from slower rate hike expectations as a result.

For the month, the MSCI World Total Return Index rebounded 3.8%, while the MSCI Emerging Market Total Return Index was up 4.6%. The domestic FSSTI Total Return Index was up 1.1% and the FTSE REIT Index total return also rose 2.9%. Bonds were mixed for the month. The JP Morgan Global Bond Index was down 0.1%, while the iBoxx Asian Local Bond Index was up 1.5%. The Jeffries CRB Index was a big loser as it dropped 6.4%. All above returns are in SGD terms.

As a more aggressive portfolio of bonds, commodities and equities, the Pi-7 Global Portfolio returned 3.2% for the month of July.

We recognise that Brexit poses a possible risk to the global economy. We will continue monitoring events as they evolve, but our baseline case continues to be that policy support should cushion any fallout from Brexit. Indeed, one can see Brexit as more a political event than one arising from financial weakness; in this respect it is not like the "Grexit" issue the last few years which arose out of, and exacerbated Europe-wide economic weakness.

For equities, we have positioned the portfolio with a bias towards high dividend equities. High dividend will serve as an anchor to achieving positive return from the equity segment. For bonds, we continue to like high-quality US dollar-denominated bond exposures.
